FRONT COVER

"Over there will be the new addition to the library", points out Reginald Trice, chairman of the Board of Trustees of Wesleyan, to his granddaughter, four-year-old Fabia Raines Rogers. Fabia has a twin, Reginald Trice Rogers, and an older brother, John F. Rogers, Jr., who is five.

Fabia's mother, also named Fabia, as a child was mascot of the Tri-K class of '41. Later she studied music and art at the old Conservatory, is presently enrolled as a liberal arts student at Wesleyan, as is her mother.

Chairman Trice was described in our November, 1963 MAGAZINE as a man of "faith, vision, and courage". He is chairman of the State Highway Board, director of Southern Bell Telephone Co., former president of Trice Oil, also of Southern Life, chairman of the Board of Piedmont Southern Life Insurance Co., Macon; director and chairman of the trust committee of First National Bank and Trust Co., Macon; past chairman of the board of stewards of Mulberry Methodist Church, Macon, etc. For years Wesleyan has been included in the regular monthly budget of his company, furnishing financial backing to the college. For many reasons we repeat, Wesleyan is "Trice blessed."

Mr. and Mrs. Trice, (the former Frankie Raines) were guests at the Inauguration of President Lyndon B. Johnson, going up to Washington on the special "Georgia train."

EDITOR'S NOTE: You asked for the Alma Mater; we gave it to you, last issue. You asked to meet our Trustees. Here is an introduction. Each of these worthies could fill a book; space limits us to these vignettes.

We can only list our Trustees Emeriti: Dr. Goodrich White, William A. Fickling, Rev. Lester Rumble, Rev. Henry Hart Jones, Kendrick Guernsey, Marion Liles, Rev. George E. Clary (our faithful secretary for twenty-two years), the late Lodwick McCord, and beloved "Mr. Dan" Manget, of Newnan, whose death this past year saddened us all.

We wish we might look back, to acquaint you with other names that leap from the pages of history—George Foster Pierce, Lovick Pierce, W. D. Anderson, T. J. Stewart, Dr. T. D. Ellis, R. J. Taylor, Orville A. Park, James Hyde Porter, Bishop W. N. Ainsworth, Bishop Arthur Moore, Dr. William F. Quillian, and others.

Perhaps another time we can do justice to the truly great men and women who are Wesleyan's Trustees. Your editor is most appreciative of their infinite cooperation on this issue.

STALWART THEY STAND BESIDE THE COLLEGE THEY SERVE.

WORKING FOR WESLEYAN

One of the highest honors that can be bestowed upon a man or woman is to be asked to serve as a trustee of Wesleyan College. The office denotes an integrity, a responsibility, a dignity, a level of ability that makes it a badge of achievement.

Wesleyan as the oldest college for women and as one of the high quality colleges of our section of the country occupies an honored place in America's system of higher education. Upon the shoulders of the trustees rests the burden of making from time to time those strategic decisions that will determine whether the position of Wesleyan will remain secure.

THEY BRING HONOR

On the other hand the College has been most fortunate in having serve on its Board individuals who by their very participation in the affairs of the College bring to it a public respect and honor. Through the years the City of Macon, in which the College is located, has furnished its finest citizens and its most capable leaders for the work of the Board. This tradition continues in the present Macon Trustees. The Alumnae Association contributes to the Board on a rotating basis a steady stream of some of the school's finest products.

As a college related to the North Georgia, South Georgia, and Florida Conferences of the Methodist Church, Wesleyan has had many of the most outstanding Methodist ministers serve as trustees, usually two at a time from each conference. Those ministers now on the Board represent the top level of leadership.

EVER GENEROUS

Among the trustees, however, are outstanding representatives of several denominations.

Usually in the past and certainly at present the Board has included prominent educators, dedicated doctors and lawyers, and businessmen of recognized leadership beyond purely boundaries of the communities in which they live.

The Board of Trustees has two regular meetings each year, in October and in May. As need may arise they are called together for special meetings. Some committees, such as the Finance Committee or the Executive Committee, meet at fairly frequent intervals.

Some individual trustees spend an enormous amount of time at work for the College. Among the trustees are some of the most generous contributors to the financial needs of the College. The trustees in recent months have made gifts and pledges to Wesleyan in excess of $100,000.

Wesleyan is grateful for its Trustees!

SHE HAS A ROOM OF HER OWN

Honoring "two great ladies of Wesleyan", both Trustees, two rooms, newly decorated, will henceforth bear their names, the Jennie Loyall Manget Dining Room, and the Alleen Poer Hinton Lounge. Designation ceremonies took place October 29, with Trustee C. Baxter Jones paying tribute to Jennie at luncheon in "her" room, and Trustee J. Frederick Wilson, her minister, eulogizing Alleen. Students Mary Louise Cole and Katherine Gardner Wilson presented bouquets of roses.

It was a memorable twin-ceremony, with Trustee Chairman Trice making the designation, President Strickland accepting, Chaplain S. L. Akers offering prayers.

"Wesleyan is more than a classroom, a laboratory, a library", said Mr. Wilson. "Wesleyan is beauty, loyalty, devotion . . . a thousand remembered yesterdays and rich tradition . . . all the accumulated service of those who have loved and strengthened her . . . a great today, and a bounteous tomorrow . . . Wesleyan is persons—and all they have brought in hand, head, and heart to bless and ennoble her."

FOR JENNIE, WITH LOVE

"A legend in her own time, both timeless and ageless, without beginning and without ending", her old friend Baxter Jones labelled Jennie.

"Her identification with the welfare of the college is so complete that her name is a symbol of alumnae loyalty", he quoted from the tribute prepared for the printed program by Dr. Akers. Since she entered Wesleyan in 1908, on an honorary scholarship, he said, she has belonged to Wesleyan: "Upholding thine ideals . . . true, faithful and loyal . . . dear Wesleyan, to thee."

He spoke of her two marriages, first, on her retirement as Alumnae Secretary in 1947, to William D. Anderson, then chairman of the board of Trustees, remembered "for his close ties with and magnificent service to Wesleyan"; and in 1959, to Dr. Fred Manget, "truly one of the great and saintly men of this century", former medical missionary to China.

Gentle Jennie of the twinkling eyes and creative approach to life, is probably our best known, best loved alumna. As "Miss Loyall" she established our Alumnae Office, was our first secretary, first editor of the Alumnae Magazine, served long on our board of managers, and continues to be our invaluable advisor.

Through her influence many gifts have come to the college. Ever generous with her time, mind, and means, a year ago, under the influence of the Kennedy-Sinclair Educational Gift program she made a major gift of $50,000 to the college she has long loved and served.

LEGAL COUNSEL, VICE CHAIRMAN

Such words as "radiant" and "lovable" are used by the congregation of Vineville Methodist Church, Macon, to describe their new pastor, Trustee J. Frederick Wilson. No stranger to Wesleyan, Dr. Wilson was a member of the faculty in 1941, was elected Trustee at Large in '56, and serves as vice chairman of the Board.

Educated at Emory (BA, honorary DD, and at Candler School of Theology, BD), Dr. Wilson has taught at Emory Junior College, Valdosta, was a Chaplain in the US Navy, and has held pastorates at Tennille, Statesboro, and Albany.

Son of an alumna (Ruth Whiting, '07), Dr. Wilson and his wife, the former Henry Kate Gardner, have three outstanding Wesleyan daughters. Each entered as the other was graduated. At Margaret's wedding to Dr. Henry Drake, of Newnan, Ga., in December, Dr. Wilson performed the ceremony. Her two sisters, Katherine, a freshman, and Victoria, '60, (Mrs. Paul Logue, Charlotte, N. C.), attended "Miss Wesleyan" of 1964.

An active and integral part of Wesleyan's history, C. Baxter Jones has served as general counsel and consultant on legal affairs of the college for the past thirty years, joining the board in 1949.

Our Mr. Jones is a life-long resident of Macon, educated at Mercer (AB, LLB, '15) and Yale (LLB, '17). Part, too, of Macon's history, he is descended from a distinguished line of lawyers (Isaac Hardeman and George S. Jones), and fathered two lawyers, the late Baxter, Jr. and Frank, new president of the Macon Chamber of Commerce.

His Wesleyan relations are legion. His mother, Roberta (Hardeman) Jones, '84, was an alumna, as are his wife, Kitty (Catherine Cater, '17), and his daughter, Roberta (Jones) James, '43, and he has two alumnae sisters, and numerous cousins and aunts.

LIFE IS LAW

Through his "lifetime in the law practice", this man of unsurpassed legal acumen and integrity has given sage counsel not only to Wesleyan, but to the state, and to many other worthy groups. He is general counsel of the Bibb County Board of Education, a staunch churchman on the official board of Vineville Methodist Church (he still teaches the George S. Jones Sunday School Class, as does his son, Frank), has been in the House of Delegates of the American Bar, has bolstered many other boards and committees. For recreation he reads, everything from Perry Mason to Tolstoi.

"Wesleyan is in its best situation ever; I can't think of anything to keep Wesleyan from accomplishing its destiny as a woman's college", says this man who, in his strong, calm way has been a major contributor toward this "best situation."

E DUCATION IS THEIR BUSINESS

MR. BOWDEN'S HOBBIES ARE FISHING, TRAVEL

Very important to Emory University, serving as chairman of its Board of Trustees, is Henry L. Bowden, eminent Atlanta attorney.

Mr. Bowden was educated at Emory (BPh, LLB, Phi Beta Kappa), and has given his University over the years the benefits of his brilliant mind, his training and experience. Both Emory and Wesleyan value this devoted Trustee, as does Clark College, Atlanta.

Member of the law firm of Lokey and Bowden, he is the City Attorney for the City of Atlanta. He is past president of the Georgia and Atlanta Bar Associations, is a Fellow of the American Bar Foundation, member of American, Inter-American, Federal Bar Associations, etc.

In World War II he became a Lieutenant Colonel in the Quartermaster Corps. He is married to Ellen Marian Fleming, has three daughters and a son, is a member of Northside Methodist Church.

DR. WARD HOLDS AB AND MA FROM EMORY, PhD, U. OF N. C. HE'S PHI BETA KAPPA, IN "WHO'S WHO", WAS MAJOR IN US ARMY

Vice president and dean of the faculties of Emory University, Dr. Judson C. Ward, Jr. is proud that he has been a teacher in high school and college, and at West Point for three years during the war. He now teaches a couples' class at Glenn Memorial Methodist Church, Atlanta.

His great contribution to education includes having served as dean at Emory, president of Georgia Teachers College, assistant chancellor of the University System of Georgia.

Our Trustee is chairman of the Georgia Accrediting Commission (accredits all high and elementary schools of state), is a member of various committees of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, is on the executive committee of the Association for Higher Education of the NEA, is a trustee of Pace Academy and Atlanta Speech School. He is a director of Decatur Federal Savings.

Hobbies: Golf, reading, working in the yard, and his family. He is married to Susan Jane Weyant, Highland Falls, N. Y. and they have four children.

JANE AND LEO HUCKABEE ENJOY HIS COLLECTION OF ANTIQUE PORCELAIN—ENGLISH, CHINESE, FRENCH, GERMAN, ALL LOVELY.

YEARS AS CHAIRMAN

Succeeding W. D. Anderson as chairman of the Board in 1949, Leo Huckabee, Macon, steered Wesleyan through thirteen eventful years. Though the road was often rough, his steady hand on the wheel guided the college past many a milestone: completing collection of funds to pay off the "moral obligation" (and what a happy day the burning of the bonds!); the attainment of a good credit rating and the ever-higher confidence of the public; consolidation of the two schools; construction of Porter Family Memorial Auditorium, the Shopping Center, the two new dormitories, the student center, Huckabee Infirmary, which is named for his parents.

During his administration the college acquired the lake and the president's home on 65 acres, saw the budget finally balanced, endowment more than doubled, our share of funds from the campaign for education in the Methodist Church raised to half a million dollars. He served during the tenure of four presidents, Johnson, Quillian, Martin, and Strickland, resigning in 1962.

Born in a Methodist parsonage, graduated from Meridian College, Miss., Mr. Huckabee is chairman of the board of Huckabee Auto Co. His office and his home in Devonwood are filled with beautiful antique furniture, porcelains, and objects of art, an interest he acquired some thirty-five years ago.

He is particularly happy that many of the treasures of Old Wesleyan have been placed at Rivoli, adding much of the charm of yesteryear to today's campus. He is head of a committee to determine the placing of the memorial tablets from Pierce Chapel. His spirit of continued dedication is an inspiration to the board he served for fifteen years "beyond the call of duty".

AMAZING GRACE

Amazingly versatile in her interests and activities is Trustee Grace (Laramore) Hightower, Thomaston, Ga. An artist herself, she is on the one hand a committed devotee of the arts; on the other she is a prodigious "dirt" gardener.

To see her at the opera, resplendent in lace or brocade, one can hardly imagine her at home at Woodlands, striding through rain in high boots, directing a crew clearing brush, or herself pruning shrubbery.

HELPS BUILD CHURCH

In her church, First Methodist, vital Grace works with both hands. About ten years ago her husband, Julian, president of the family mills at Thomaston, made available a beautiful site on the edge of town, and there, high on a knoll, an authentic Colonial church was built. She personally provided the planting and keeps up the grounds. Three years ago, in her honor, Julian presented a fine organ to the church they helped plan and build. In charge of music, Grace secured a member of the Wesleyan faculty, John O'Steen, as organist, and adds her glorious mezzo-soprano to the choir.

MUSIC IS HER CUP

Grace pursued her musical studies at Wesleyan, voice with Mr. Billin, piano with Miss Lin and Mr. Maerz, earning both her AB and BM degrees in 1920. Since then she has

Fifteen years ago, eager as always to help others find happiness, Grace inaugurated an active program of aiding young singers to further their studies, by personally financing them or procuring grants and fellowships. She serves on the board of the Fine Arts Foundation in Atlanta, organized last year to help young people continue their training in all the arts. As membership chairman for the southeastern states of the National Council of the Metropolitan Opera, she will go to New York in March to be present at the Metropolitan auditions for young singers. Grace is also on the boards of the Atlanta Opera Guild and the Atlanta Symphony.

DEDICATION OF BANKS HALL: BISHOP MOORE, DOROTHY BLOUNT LAMAR, '83, PRESIDENT SILAS JOHNSON, LEO HUCKABEE, MARY JO MANN ADAMS, '52, FRANCES SINBACK, '51, MR. AND MRS. BANKS, AND SON, WILLIAM, JR.

The bronze plaque on the dormitory wall reads: "In appreciation of their leadership into a Second Century of Christian Education."

Banks Hall was named in 1950 by the Trustees of Wesleyan College to honor William Nathaniel Banks and his wife, Evelyn (Wright, '14), of Grantville and Newnan, Georgia. Banks Hall was completely redecorated and refurnished in 1962, thanks to the folk whose name it bears.

FRIENDS ENDOW

No words could adequately express the appreciation of the college for the multitudinous acts of generosity on the part of this dedicated couple. A Trustee since 1942, Mr. Banks was for many years chairman of the finance committee, and was general chairman of the Second Century Fund committee which discharged Wesleyan's "moral obligation".

In recognition of his contribution to this fund, a group of his friends endowed the William N. Banks Department of U. S. Literature and this chair is named in his honor. A further contribution from Mr. Banks made possible the addition of library holdings in this field.

"Whenever I saw Mr. Banks", says Katherine Carnes, librarian emeritus, "I had the feeling of being in the presence of a strong spiritual force. His high sense of truth and honor, his flashingly perceptive mind and his kindness and generosity were available to all who needed him."

His wife declares that "loving people and doing for them has been his hobby." He has shared his time, his means, himself with high and low, black and white, building a church here, sending a student to college there, gentle, modest, beloved by all.

MILL MAN

Mr. Banks, a Phi Beta Kappa graduate of Emory, is president of four Georgia textile mills and director of two others. He has been president of the American Cotton Manufacturers Association, also the Georgia association, and chairman of the Institute of Textile Technology.

Listed in "Who's Who", he is a director of the Trust Company of Georgia, Fulton Bank and Cotton Mills, Gulf Life Insurance Co. of Atlanta and West Point RR, a trustee of Emory and LaGrange College, as well as Wesleyan.

Bishop Arthur Moore, who "walked at the side and worked intimately with this dedicated layman" for more than half a century wrote in a recent tribute: "Never have I known one with a deeper faith, a quicker spirit, a more generous purse, or a more radiant life." Bishop Moore stated further: "Wesleyan College is stronger and better prepared for its challenging tomorrows because of the integrity and generous support of this dedicated man."

HER OWN GARDEN

Former Alumnae Trustee, Mrs. Banks was elected Trustee at Large in 1961. Recipient of the Award for Distinguished Service to Wesleyan in 1961, her works have been wide and wonderful. Intensely interested in preserving Old Wesleyan she arranged a meeting with the director of the Rockefeller Foundation, Dean Rusk. In typically "Evelyn Banks fashion" she arrived in New York on a bleak November day with trays of Spanish men camellias from her own garden.

SON IS PLAYWRIGHT

At Bankshaven peacocks shimmer on the terrace, black swans stud Pearl Lake, but neither matches the beauty and elegance of the gracious mistress of the manor. Her innate courtesy and refinement, her warmth of heart and manner have won a devoted following. She has many namesakes, most recently the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Ernest Proctor (Barbara Watkins, '52). Devout Methodists, both she and her husband have served their church and its institutions well.

Their son, William, Jr., playwright, is currently working on a new play. His Christmas play, "The Curate's Play", produced at St. George Episcopal Church in N. Y., three years ago, was dedicated to his parents "with love and admiration".

THEY'RE GOOD SCOUTS

Last summer Trustee Julia (Munroe) Woodward, Quincy, Fla., helped herd sixteen Girl Scouts, including her own daughter, to New York, and the World's Fair. Transportation and lodging for ten days totalled $30.00 each, with friends cooperating (Julia's sister Mary Gray gave her basement over to Scouts' air mattresses for three nights in Washington, D.C.)

"With preparation and planning the world is your oyster", says Julia.

Julia has been Girl Scout organizer for Quincy for ten years, procuring leaders for eleven troops. Working with her, as in all her activities, is her husband, Bob D., himself finance chairman for the Girl Scout Council of the Appalachee Bend (Perry to Panama City).

Julia raises horses, Arabians and Tennessee Walkers, and she raises daughters for Wesleyan: Judy Woodward, '63; Mary Margaret (Woodward) McNeill, '60, whose baby, Julia, smiled from our Magazine cover last February (class of 1985); and Scout Susan, 16, who plans to come. Julia and her family have influenced a steady stream of other students from Quincy and environs to enroll at the Oldest and Best.

MUNROE CHAIR NAMED

The Munroe Chair of Modern Languages is being established by the Munroe family "in recognition of the profound influence Wesleyan College has had on it via the Munroe women who have been educated there".

"Aunt Jessie paved the way for all the rest

He's secretary of the Wesleyan Board of Trustees and chairman of its Development Committee, president of a bank (First National, Macon), is on the Governor's staff, has headed the Macon Chamber of Commerce, the Georgia State Fair Association, and much more. But perhaps his proudest boast is that he holds the Silver Beaver Award of the Boy Scouts of America!

Tom Greene, Jr., a graduate of the University of Georgia, where he was All-Southeastern Conference tackle, serves as vice president of the Central Georgia Council of the Boy Scouts (26 cities in Middle Georgia), and is a member of its advisory executive board. He has two Scout sons, Tom III (an Eagle), and Steve, 15.

HEADS LIBRARY DRIVE

Doing his duty as a Trustee he is currently spearheading a capital solicitation program, a "one-time shot" to raise funds for library expansion, calling upon trustees, business men in the middle-Georgia area, grants, foundations, and friends. With enthusiasm and some humor, Mr. Greene outlined the plans and progress of the drive at the meeting of the Alumnae Council on January 27.

"The library is Wesleyan's most critical need", he told alumnae that day at lunch. "We must modernize and increase our area for constructive research and study. The basis of modern education is immediate access to knowledge".

REVENUE AND BABIES, TOO

In computing her profits Wesleyan reckons the addition in 1961 of Prim W. Fisher, Jacksonville, to her Board of Trustees.

A leading CPA, author of articles on the subject, Mr. Fisher has been president of the Florida Institute of Certified Public Accountants, and chairman of the Florida State Board of Accountancy. From 1937-'61 he was executive secretary of the Duval County Budget Commission.

Civic and church groups in his city and state have derived benefits from his special training and talents: Official Board of First Methodist Church, treasurer of the Florida Council of Churches, chairman advisory Board of Salvation Army, state treasurer of the Gideons.

History and Rotary are among Mr. Fisher's chief interests. He wrote a history of the Rotary Club of Jacksonville in 1961, the Golden Anniversary year when he was president. He has also published "One Dozen Pre-Revolutionary War Families of Eastern North Carolina"; is past state president and national trustee of the Sons of the American Revolution, member of N. C. Society of Cincinnati.

No statement on accountant Fisher could be accurately tabulated without listing his wife, Dorothy Elizabeth Senhen, of Louisville, and their three young-adult children.

IN A QUAIL TO DR. QUILLIAN

Because his pediatric practice puts him in the world of women and children, Dr. Warren W. Quillian, Trustee from Coral Gables, Fla., seeks relaxation in the outdoor world of men. His greatest delight is to take a gun from his collection and go after quail, turkey, and deer, or to fish in Florida waters. Often he is accompanied by his son, resident in pediatrics, who will enter his office in August.

Dr. Quillian (BS, Emory; MD, honorary DS, U. of Fla., Phi Beta Kappa) has devoted nearly thirty-nine years to private practice of pediatrics. "Who's Who" lists him as having served as Director of Pediatrics, also chief of staff of Jackson Memorial Hospital, Miami; president of the American Academy of Pediatrics, Commander in the Medical Corps, USNR; associate in pediatrics at University of Miami School of Medicine, as seminar lecturer, etc. He has worked for crippled and cardiac children's groups, at a premature center, on the milk board.

This Trustee is the son of a Trustee, the Rev. J. Wiley Quillian, of the North Georgia Conference. His late sister, Cleta, was a graduate of the class of 1903.

His principal hobby, he says, is his wife, Rosabel Brown. They have two children, Warren, Jr., and Harriet (Mrs. William Chipley, Kansas City).

UNDER THE FLORIDA SUN

A big builder of the Sunshine State is Trustee L. M. Studstill, who moved to West Palm Beach from Alabama, where he was in the automobile business and banking.

Mr. Studstill, a Master of Accounts, grew up with real estate in Florida. He became a wizard on property values and investments, in time one of the outstanding realtors of the peninsular with offices in three of the Palm beaches. He served as president of the Florida Association of Realtors, of the West Palm Beach Board of Realtors, director of the national association.

Because he believed in education he sent his only daughter, Elizabeth, '37, to Wesleyan. Since her untimely death he and his wife have been in the process of establishing a scholarship for Florida girls in her memory. They have also presented a substantial gift in Florida property to Wesleyan. He is a prominent Methodist layman, a director and organizer of the Bank of Palm Beach and Trust Co., identified with a myriad community services and activities.

For years Mrs. Studstill, the former Ethel Foster, daughter of a Methodist minister of the Alabama Conference, accompanied her husband to Trustee meetings. Friendly folk, they were welcomed warmly on campus. Theirs is a family involvement with the college, strengthened by the bonds of sentiment, Everything's coming out oranges for Sam A. Banks, Trustee at Large from Lakeland, Fla.

An acclaimed builder of the Sunshine State, Mr. Banks has been engaged in the fruit business his entire business life, thirty years general manager of the Lakeland Packing Co. This past year he won the Outstanding Service Award in Agriculture in his state.

He's a past chairman of the Florida Citrus Commission, of Florida Fresh Citrus Shippers Assn.; is a member of Florida Council of 100, Florida World's Fair Authority (he helped the Governor open Florida's exhibit), executive board of United Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Assn., Washington, D. C.

Director of Lakeland's Florida National Bank, he serves on the Board of Lake Junaluska Assembly, as trustee of Lakeland's First Methodist Church, of Florida Southern College.

Born in Alabama, AB Florida Southern, married to Mary Gatewood Pulliam, he has one son, Rev. Sam A. Banks, Jr., chaplain at U. of Fla. Health Center. Hobbies: two grandchildren, and golf under the Florida sun.

Chick and egg, man and boy, dynamic Trustee William P. Simmons has proved himself a worker and a winner.

He's president of Southern Crate and Veneer Co., vice president of Elberta Crate and Box Co. (Tallahassee and Bainbridge), a partner in Simmons Co., Tennille, Ga.

Chairman of the Board of First National Bank and Trust Co., Macon, he serves on the Boards of the Trust Co. of Georgia, Georgia Southern and Florida Railroad, Piedmont Southern Life Insurance Co.

ONE IN A MILLION

Bibb County Board of Education member for eighteen years, he's chairman of its finance committee. He's on the Governor's Commission for Improvement and Efficiency in Government, on the Regional Advisory Board of Small Business Administration, chairman of the Governor's Poultry Study Committee.

A devoted churchman, on the Official Board of Mulberry Methodist Church, he teaches Sunday School. Member of the National Council, Boy Scouts of America, he has the Silver Beaver Award, is past District Governor of Rotary International, past president of the Macon Council on World Affairs.

He has an AB, Duke University; is married to Betty Sweet Smith; has three children (one married); lives in an Italian villa in Stanislaus, Macon. For relaxation, this man of urbane charm and culture plays a small organ in his home. An artist with words (including Spanish), he also takes painting lessons at night.

When not "in high cotton" at his Valdosta, Ga., cotton mills, A. J. Strickland likes to spend time on the water in his boat, at Jacksonville.

Graduated from the University of Georgia, Mr. Strickland was formerly on the State Board of Regents, also trustee of the Lake Junaluska Assembly. A distinguished Methodist layman, he is currently on the committee of one hundred of Emory, director of Georgia Southern and Florida Railroad, First National Bank, also First Federal Savings and Loan of Valdosta, the Valdosta Daily Times, and his own companies.

TWO MORE FROM ATLANTA AREA

From law to linotype is the story of George F. Longino, Jr., College Park, Ga. Graduated from Georgia and the Woodrow Wilson College of Law, he became co-founder of the Longino and Porter Printing Co., later president of the Printing Industries of Atlanta, Inc.

Presently he serves on the governing board of Georgia Military Academy and is chairman of the board of the Children's Home of the Methodist Church, being active at First Methodist; is on the executive committee of the Bank of Fulton County, East Point; president of Inter-City Civitans; on Grand Jurors' Assn., etc.

Hobbies: Fishing and auto travel; three children and four grandchildren.

Atlantans know Randolph W. Thrower, Trustee at Large, as "Mr. Republican." Dedicated to the concept of a two-party system in Georgia, this prominent attorney is Republican County Chairman, a diligent worker for his party.

Graduated from Emory (BPh, JD), Mr. Thrower is a former FBI agent, and was a Marine captain in World War II. He has served as head of the tax section and in the House of Delegates of the American Bar Assn., lectures on corporate and business law, his specialties.

A civic leader, with mental health one of his interests, he has headed the Emory Alumnae Assn. His hobbies: fishing and swimming, gardening, with accent on orchids and camellias. Married to a Munroe (see p. 12), he and Margaret ('35) have five children, from second grade to high school French teacher.

ENGINEER BOTTLES THE PRODUCT

Things go better with Coca-Cola when Herbert Haley is bottling that beverage. He is president of coke bottling companies in Albany, Ga., and in seven other Georgia cities (Moultrie, Tifton, Fitzgerald, Cordele, Americus, Pelham, Bainbridge).

This bottler, banker, and business man is a graduate engineer, with a BS in Mechanical Engineering from the Georgia School of Technology, and SM and ScD in ME from Massachusetts Institute of Technology. He also earned the rank of lieutenant commander in the Navy during World War II.

Son of a former mayor and leading business man of Albany, Mr. Haley is chairman of the board of the First State Bank and Trust Co. there, First State in Cordele, and Ft. Gaines Banking Co., also a director of Fulton National in Atlanta. His interests include a farm, also the Herald Publishing Co.

Director of the Albany Chamber of Commerce, YMCA, past chairman of the Albany Community Council, (see "Who's Who in the South and Southeast" for the rest) his civic duties are many.

PRESENTS ORGAN

The pause that refreshes him is for music. Audio is his hobby; he has a large collection of classical records. He is a past president of the Albany Community Concert Association. Last April he presented an organ for the chapel of the First Methodist Church, (he is steward and trustee). Wesleyan's Doris Elks, who had played the dedicatory program on the large organ given by his family previously, went to Albany to give a concert with Doris and Norman McLean.

MUNROE CONTINUED

by insisting on going to Wesleyan", said Julia. "Her sister Julia had not been allowed to go, as college was thought foolishness." Jessie Munroe, '87, became the wife of Bishop James E. Dickey; Julia married Dr. C. E. Dowman, a president of Emory-at-Oxford and Wesleyan Trustee.

"Aunt Bessie" (Mrs. J. L. Davidson, '93), hospitalized at 90, is one of the oldest living alumnae. Childless, she reared her sister Daisy's two boys.

"Aunt Daisy" died under 30 ("Before Old Wesleyan burned I found on a window pane in the old library her name scratched with her diamond ring"—Julia).

Jessie's daughters and many more Munroes came to the college. Julia and her two sisters, Margaret, '35, married to Atlanta attorney Randolph W. Thrower, a Trustee, and Mary Gray Cobey, '34, Washington, were sent by their "Daddy", "Mr. Pat" Munroe, because he believed in the college that educated his sisters.

To the Munroe Family Chair Julia's nephew, George Bates has just added a substantial gift as a memorial to his mother, Claire (Munroe) Bates, '07.

SHE'S AT THE TOP

Her tremendous vitality and enthusiasm have placed Julia in numerous top spots in her town where she has been elected "Woman of the Year." She likes best her work with youth, in Scouts, in Garden Club, in PTA, in the Quincy Presbyterian Church and Sunday School, as a Candy Stripper of the Women's Auxiliary of the Hospital.

With her "wonderful Bob D." recovered from an operation, she and her sisters took Mother Munroe to Mexico in January, a Christmas present.

SUELLE MCKELLAR SWARTZ, '33
ROANOKE, VA. AND POMPAÑO BEACH, FLA.
ELECTED '64

Daughter of Alumna Anna Belle McCrory and Prof. I. E. McKellar, she lived on the old campus, was Red and White mascot in '17. Today she is the mother of two girls and two boys, and active with her husband, William P. Swartz, Jr. in civic affairs.

Suelle helped arrange a Wesleyan meeting in Pompano Beach on December 4, is ever-ready where Wesleyan is concerned. Her daughter, Suelle Marie, enters in the fall, fourth generation (Susie Berry McCrory, graduated in '85).

CORNELIA TURNER THORNTON, '30
CORDELE, GA.
ELECTED 1962

Married to B. I. Thornton, on whom the Wesleyan Christian Advocate recently bestowed the title "Mr. Methodist", Cornelia sent two daughters to Wesleyan, is blessed with nine grandchildren. She is active in the missionary union and is department superintendent at her own church, holds office in the DAR and Woman's Club.

Cornelia spends happy hours at their cottage on Lake Blackshear, watching her husband fish!

MACON, GA.
APPOINTED '63

Countless kin have attended Wesleyan, including her own three daughters. Her late husband, Washington Dessau, was the son of an alumna, Fannie (Gilmer) Dessau, '78. Dynamic co-chairman of the Senior Group of Macon alumnae, she was hostess for their first meeting last fall.

Wesleyan's cheerful "Number One Salesman" devotes herself also to her church, her children, eight grandchildren; loves people and gardening.

SOME ARE GENTLEMEN FARMERS

Mayor of Thomson, Ga., for the past ten years, Attorney Robert E. Knox, Wesleyan Trustee, likes to ride horseback over his 2,000 acre farm in McDuffie County. "Farmer" Knox raises timber, sheep, and Black Angus cattle, fishes for bream in his pond, relishes spring lamb roasted with vinegar by his mother's recipe.

His wife, the beautiful Ruth Hall, is an alumna, 1940, as were her three sisters, Elizabeth, Katherine, and Mary. (His two brothers, P. S., Jr. and W.L.M. Knox, also married alumnae, Mary Lyles Aiken, 1934, and Margaret "Pinky" Evans, 1937).

With an LLB degree from the University of Georgia, Mr. Knox is attorney for Knox Homes, "Mr. Legs" men's and ladies' trousers, U. S. Rubber, and other manufacturing firms. He served in the state senate some years ago.

MAYOR KNOX'S FARM IS HIS JOY—SO IS HELPING WESLEYAN AND HIS TOWN TO GROW

After thirty years in a Macon business bearing his name, C. W. Farmer retired in 1960 to live up to that name by buying a farm near Marshallville. There "Farmer" Farmer started raising registered short-horn cattle, delegating his countless camellia bushes to his wife, Erin, who glorifies the Wesleyan and Macon scene with their prize greenhouse specimens. "Mr. Charley" was president of the National Camellia Society in '61 and '62, is current vice-president. His lady of the camellias is listed in "Who's Who in American Women"; he's in "Who's Who in Commerce and Industry".

Serving Wesleyan on the Trustees' Executive and Finance Committees he was chairman of the Jennie Loyall Manget Dining Room Committee; is on the boards of Bibb Manufacturing Co., and the Vineville Methodist Church. His interests span banking( Executive Committee of First National), real estate, Rotary, golf, hunting quail, travel, his daughter (June Causey)—and Wesleyan!

HINTON CONTINUED

The richly furnished Manget room, former "Faculty Dining Room," was decorated by Charles B. Townsend, of Brown's, Atlanta, and features a magnificent crystal chandelier presented by Mrs. Charles Howard Candler, Sr. The lovely floral centerpiece at the designation luncheon was a tribute from Jennie's dear friend, Evelyn Banks, of Newnan.

HUNDRED HINTON YEARS

For over a century, said Mr. Wilson, a member of the Hinton family has had intimate association with the college. Dr. Hinton, Alleen's husband, died in 1963. His grandfather was a Trustee a hundred years ago; his father was professor of Math, and Wesleyan's first academic Dean.

"Mrs. Hinton has served her Alma Mater with loyalty and devotion . . . Trustee of the College, chairman of the Trustee committee on buildings, assistant to the president, and currently a vice president of the Wesleyan Alumnae Association and Director of the Wesleyan Historical Society . . . she has carried heavy responsibility in community affairs . . . the Vineville Methodist Church has benefited by the joy of her presence . . . by her fidelity in life and service."

Deeply devoted to the buildings on the Old Campus, Alleen was active in restoring them. When Wesleyan could no longer afford to keep them, "her loyalty and devotion were still to Wesleyan College, and she has given of herself without reserve to beautify the Rivoli campus and to utilize tastefully all Wesleyan's furnishings and art objects." Alleen supervised decorating "her" room, using furniture from the Cade collection.

Both rooms will be on the Garden Club tour of Macon in March.

trees and shrubs known by name and often planted by Grace.

The decor of the Georgian Colonial house the Hightowers built fourteen years ago is planned around her collection of paintings and fine porcelain, Chinese export and other ware. The music room features the blue of a pair of Delft bulb pots against complementary yellow walls.

In nearby Griffin, in her own lovely home, lives daughter Anne (Mrs. Will B. Plowden), whose three daughters and infant son are the joy of the grandparents.

SET UP MUSIC FUND

Mr. Hightower, important in the textile industry, is president of Community Enterprises, Inc. He and his wife have been munificent benefactors of Wesleyan. They have established a fund for the music department and named a student parlor in memory of his mother, Mattie Lou Harrison Hightower.

In recognition of her devotion and hard work Grace was made an Alumnae Trustee in 1949, was elected Trustee at Large in '51.

"We must make Wesleyan known", says Grace, "We must impress her on the mind and conscience of everyone, everywhere."

FUTURE

1965-66 FRESHMAN CLASS

We anticipate the Class will have 240-250 Freshman, says Allen Sanders, director of admissions, fewer than this year, because we are holding more sophomores and upper classmen.

We have 541 applications processed to date (or being processed)

We anticipate there will be about 650 applications received before we stop processing due to the Class being filled.

We anticipate the Class will be filled about March 1 whereas 1964-65 Class was filled March 26th.

We expect a total enrollment in the fall of 1965 of 723 students.
